Room with a vuvu!

EAGER young England fans roar the three lions on to victory and helped a good cause at the same time.

The pupils at Bridgine School in Windsor paid £2 to watch England's World Cup match with Slovenia on Wednesday in aid of the Alexander Devine Children's Cancer Trust (ADCCT).

They got dressed up, painted their faces, flew the flags and even honked on some of the notorious vuvuzelas which have made such an impact at football's biggest event.

The youngsters were also able to buy sweets and drinks also for charity.
